

CBSE/PLN-8/2025-26

1st January 2026THE GIFT OF ANOTHER TIME

The clock strikes twelve, the old year fades,
Its echoes drift through twilight shades.

A dawn arises, pure and bright,
Unfolding dreams in morning light.

The past is written, sealed away,
Yet hope awakens with the day.
Each heartbeat hums a gentle song,
Of courage found, of spirits strong.

So lift your gaze, let burdens fall,
The future whispers, "Welcome all."
With open hands, the year we greet,
Where hope and promise softly meet.

As the clock ticks past midnight and the calendar turns a fresh page, there is a collective exhale across the world. The New Year is more than just a change in dates; it is a psychological reset button. It is a threshold we cross, leaving behind the weight of the old to embrace the possibilities of the new. But this year, instead of simply wishing for a "perfect" year, let us welcome it for what it truly is: a profound chance to learn and grow from the experiences that shaped us. Every meaningful beginning needs a moment of stillness before it unfolds. Pausing allows us to breathe, release the weight of what has passed, and create space for clarity. Reflection then turns that pause into wisdom, helping us see not just what happened, but what it taught us. When we combine pause and reflection, our next start isn't rushed or reactive; it's intentional, rooted in awareness, and aligned with who we want to become. It's like standing at the edge of a river, you don't leap across without first stopping to gauge its flow, and only after reflection do you choose the right stepping stones. To truly learn from a year and carry its wisdom into the next, begin by pausing to reflect on the experiences that shaped you, both challenges and joys and identify recurring themes. From these, distil clear lessons, then translate them into practical intentions for the future, supported by small rituals or reminders that keep them alive. Sharing your insights with others deepens understanding, while staying flexible ensures you adapt as life evolves. In this way, each year becomes not just a passage of time but a stepping stone toward growth, resilience, and purpose.
