Gandhi: From Gratitude to Service

“Gratitude is not merely remembering what we have received; it is allowing what we have received to transform the way we live.” We often think of gratitude as a simple “Thank You.” For Mahatma Gandhi, however, gratitude was much deeper, it was a way of looking at life. He believed that no person becomes who they are entirely alone. Behind every journey stand people, experiences, books, teachers and circumstances that quietly shape us. Perhaps this understanding began in his childhood. As a young boy in Rajkot, Gandhi knew Uka, a sweeper who was socially ignored due to his caste. When Gandhi received sweets, he wanted to share them with Uka. When told that touching him was against social custom, the young Mohandas questioned the very idea. Why should another human being be considered impure? That childhood encounter became an early seed of his lifelong opposition to untouchability. Later, Gandhi personally cleaned latrines and worked to restore dignity to sanitation workers. His gratitude was therefore not expressed merely in words; it became respect for the hands that served society.

Years later, after returning from England, Gandhi was searching for answers to profound questions of faith, morality and truth. During this period, Shrimad Rajchandra (Raichandbhai) became an important spiritual influence. Gandhi openly acknowledged his debt to him. He also remembered with gratitude the Christian friends who had encouraged his religious inquiry, even though Gandhi ultimately followed his own spiritual path.

He similarly acknowledged the influence of books and ideas. Ruskin's Unto This Last, Tolstoy's writings, and the teachings of his own religious tradition helped shape his philosophy. Gandhi did not consider acknowledging another person's influence a weakness. To him, it was a mark of intellectual honesty. His gratitude also embraced teachers, parents, stories and even experiences that challenged him. The stories of Shrivana and Harishchandra, which he encountered as a child, left lasting impressions of devotion and truth.

Gandhi's life therefore offers us a richer meaning of आभार.

To be grateful is to remember.

To remember is to recognise.

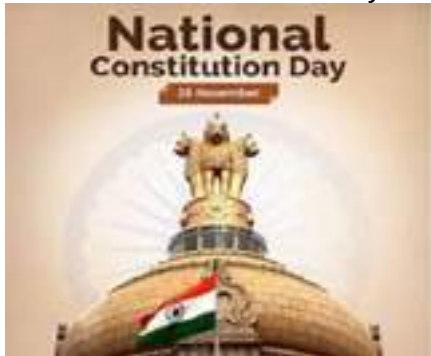

And to recognise is to honour through our actions.

For Gandhi, the greatest thank you was never a word.

It was the life he chose to live.

HIGHLIGHTS OF SEPTEMBER 2026

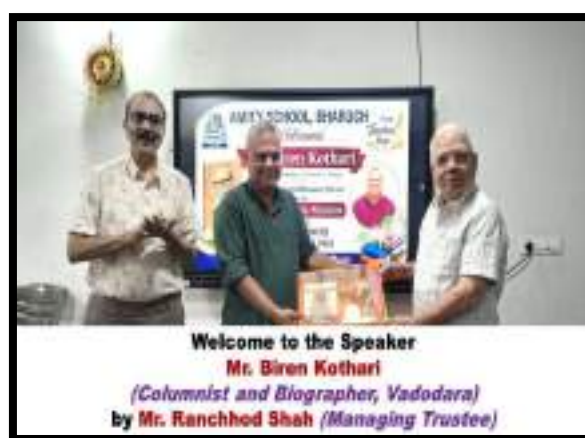

TEACHER'S DAY CELEBRATION

5/09/26

On the occasion of Teachers' Day, the book review of Krantikari Vicharak becomes a heartfelt expression of gratitude to Raojibhai Patel, a renowned mathematician, thinker and teacher whose revolutionary ideas and association with the Renaissance Group touched many lives. This biography, written by Mr. Biren Kothari, is more than a narration of Raojibhai Patel's life. It is an effort to preserve his memories, values and contributions. To portray his journey authentically, Mr. Kothari went beyond conventional sources and gathered memories from villagers, disciples, colleagues and those who knew Raojibhai closely.

He also carefully verified important details of Raojibhai's life. Interestingly, after struggling to begin the book for several months, Mr. Kothari completed the biography in just ten days once his thoughts began to flow with clarity and purpose. The thoughtful illustrations further enrich the narrative, helping readers visualise Raojibhai Patel's life, work and legacy. On Teachers' Day, the book reminds us that a true teacher does more than impart knowledge. A teacher awakens thought, challenges conventions and inspires others. Krantikari Vicharak is therefore a tribute to Raojibhai Patel's revolutionary vision and enduring influence.

Some teachers leave classrooms, but their ideas continue to inspire generations.

Theme of the Year 2026-27: ATTITUDE OF GRATITUDE

Dear Parents,

Warm greetings to all!

Every academic year, our school embraces a guiding theme students to grow not only in knowledge but also in character. In today's era children have instant access to resources, entertainment, and information at the screen. It is easy for them to assume that everything is readily available. As d parents, it is our shared responsibility to help them recognize and the countless visible and invisible forces that enrich their lives. With this thought in mind dedicated the academic year 2026-27 to the theme: ATTITUDE as we have and totaride clintwship: ATTITUDE OF GRATITUDE

Gratitude is far more than saying 'Thank You'; is a way of life. Every achievement, opportunity, and milestone is made possible by the contributions of others. This year-long theme, we aim to help possible ontriuthers of others. Through this year-long theme, we aim to help our acknowledge and express gratitude towards their family, teachers, support, staff, farmers, soldiers, government employees, social workers, mother nature and national heroes and every individual whose efforts shape their lives. We to instill gratitude for experiences, challenges, and even failures that help us grow.

Throughout the year, students participate in thoughtfully designed activities at various level. Many of these initiatives will extend the school campus to involve families and the wider community. To help techins, support, farmers, soldiers, government employees, social workers, mother nature, or national heroes and every families and the wider community. Through meaningful gestures, service initiatives, creative expressions, and collaborative projects, students will discover that gratitude is best expressed through actions. The year's journey will culminate in a grand stage dimensions of gratitude.

Dear Parents, your partnership is central to the success of this initiative. A child's first lesson in gratitude begins at home. We seek your wholehearted support in encouraging your child to participate sincerely, assisting them in activities that may involve family or community members, and, above all, modelling gratitude through your own words and actions.

Together, let us nurture children whose greatness is reflected not only in what they achieve in academics, but also in how deeply they appreciate the people and the world around them. With our collective efforts, we are confident that 'Attitude of Gratitude' will become not just the theme of the year, but a lifelong value for every child.
